HEADLINES

- Despite their hold on first place loosening since summer began, Union Omaha remains atop the league thanks to a comeback victory in Portland last week. They have 14 points gained from losing positions on the season, and an overall 4-5-2 record after falling behind.

- That road win will give the Owls a real boost after a four-match losing streak away from home. It comes in time for them to travel to one of the three venues in League One where the home team hasn't lost, with Fort Wayne accruing 4 wins and 3 draws in their Indiana home.

- While Fort Wayne's top-class attacking pairing of Taig Healy and Lillian Ricol may grab the headlines, their club has been in the playoff chase in large part thanks to their defense. They're tied for the league lead in both goals allowed (17) and clean sheets (7).

- That defense will be put to the test against an Omaha side with the most expected goals (36.61) in the league, along with the most goals scored in the second half (20 of their 29).

- A pair of midfielders are central to each team's buildup; Omaha's Sami Guediri has the highest touch percentage of any non-defender in the league with 11.3% of his team's touches. Just behind him is Fort Wayne's Javier Armas at 11.1%.
